Exhibitor Biography: Lorenz Angus is a multigenerational, family operation located in west central Alberta. Their bull sale is held on the ranch, the first Tuesday in April. Their objective is to breed cattle that are low maintenance and functional, that cover the basics first and foremost. The cowherd typically grazes into December in a part of the country that isn't always well suited for that, therefore fleshing ability and fertility are a key to their survival. They feel that these bulls are an example of calving ease, vigor, good hair and real world performance that cover the economic fundamentals to be the cattlemen's kind.

Exhibitor Biography: T BAR K Ranch is a fifth-generation family ranch operated by Kevin and Kim Dorrance, located amongst the rolling and treed hills of the Moose Mountains. The original ranch was homesteaded in 1889 by Kevin's great-grandfather and has truly withstood the test of time. This ranch has been built and found success because of the love and keen eye for cattle of each generation. We hold fast to our commitment to build our ideal herd, avoiding fads and not letting numbers dictate our decisions. Instead, we have trusted our instincts and our eye and followed as closely as we could what we believe makes a great cow, creating the set of females and bulls we have to date. T Bar K Ranch has always been a mainstay in the cattle industry. It has always been important to us to stand behind our program and ensure our customers' happiness. We have a large repeat clientele, which we feel has been the backbone of our success. In 2018, we dispersed our cow herd, thinking we would slow down. But our children had other plans. Our kids sourced some foundational females from throughout the industry, and our program is growing once again. Our family's love for the cattle industry has run deep through many generations, with our three children, Jordan, Sydney and Brock, being the fifth. We sell our bulls off-farm, and we welcome you to visit and tour our cow herd and the bulls we have for sale.
