Breeding Quality Red Angus Since 1972

Welcome to Flying K

On behalf of everyone at Flying K we welcome you to our 33rd annual sale. A big thank you to all our past customers who have supported us year in and out, some of you since our beginning in 1972! We would like to have everyone come out and join us for the day, as its a customer appreciation event as well as a bull sale.

Our goal is to produce genetics that compliment your cow herd. Your success is our success. No creep feeding prior to weaning, so our weights are just grass and milk.

As usual, the bulls are fed a TMR ration to develop them as breeding bulls. I've never heard anyone say that we "Shake & Bake". They are fed in large pens (approximately 1000 feet long), and have to walk every day to water. Weather permitting, we will pen them sale day on bare dirt to make it easier for you to appraise feet and legs. No feet have been trimmed on any of the bulls. All bulls will also be sire verified.

We will have updated weights, scrotal measurements, and carcass data posted to our website as it becomes available. If you follow us on Facebook we usually notify you when something new has been added to the website (www.flyingkbranch.ca). Our videos will be posted to www.cattlevids.ca when they are finished.

Customer Service is always our top priority. Mishaps or wrecks can happen, and we keep a few bulls around in the event you get in a pinch.

This is our business, plan to stop out for a visit anytime before the sale, or throughout the year. Your purchase will influence your herd for generations. We try and provide as much information as possible to help make the best decision possible for your herd. If you need any additional information, please don't hesitate to ask.

Please join us for lunch & steaks after the sale, people are what make the cattle industry & we look forward to visiting with you!

Calving Ease

- ★ Bull is recommended to be used on cows
- ★ ★ Bull should be used on cows or larger type heifers
- ★ ★ ★ There should be few problems when using these bulls on first calf heifers.

Elite Calving Ease Bulls in the comments, these are bulls that are in the top 1-2% of the Breed, not only are they low birthweight, but they have finer bones, small heads, & generations of calving ease throughout their pedigree

Remember to take into account your own cow herd genetics, environment, feeding conditions, etc. They will have a BIG influence on your birth weights. We hope this helps you out!

EPD Info

EPDs are a measure of the expected progeny difference between a sire's progeny compared to average performance of all the sires evaluated. It is expressed in pounds and is based on the progeny's performance, performance of the bull & his relatives. At a yearling age these bulls have no progeny, therefore their epd accuracy is very limited and we don't use them for our own herd bull selection. We include epds to help as a selection tool, but each producer should use their own selection criteria based on what is the best for their own herd and the direction they wish to go.

A note from Canadian Angus Association about the new Red Angus EPDs: "Canadian Red Angus members will notice this change to their cattle EPDS. These new EPDs are not comparable to your previous EPDs. So please don't think of it as your EPDs changing. This is a completely new set of numbers, now directly comparable and on the same base as EPDs for Black Angus animals (both in Canada and the U.S.). This change will take time to adjust to and that your acceptable ranges for EPDs for your program and your environment will need to be reassessed."

- BW: Birth Weight EPD - is expressed in pounds and is the best overall prediction of a bull's contribution to the birth weight of his calves. It is the most useful tool available in determining the calving ease status of a particular bull. Negative values = lighter birth weights, positive values = heavier than average birth weights.
- WW: Weaning Weight EPD - Predicts the ability of a sire's calves to grow from birth to weaning, expressed in pounds.
- YW: Yearling Weight EPD - Predicts the ability of a sire's calves to grow from birth to yearling, expressed in pounds.
- MILK: Milk EPD- is an indicator of milking ability in daughters. It represents the differences in weaning weights of calves due to the amount of milk produced by their mothers.
- TM: Total Maternal EPD - It is calculated by adding 1/2 of WW EPD and the Milk EPD. It measures the difference in weaning weight of the bull's daughters' calves.
- CE: Calving Ease EPD - refers to the calf's ability to grow in utero and be born unassisted. A higher score = greater "calving ease"

ANNOUNCEMENTS THAT DAY TAKE PRECEDENCE OVER PRINTED MATTER

Care & Management of Yearling Bulls

1. FEEDING: Your yearling bull still has a lot of growing to do. Feed the young bull well. You should feed 5-10 lbs of grain in addition to a full feed of good quality hay or silage from now until the start of breeding season. Recondition your bull after the breeding season to allow them to mature to their genetic capabilities. This is a very critical age as they start losing their teeth at 18-24 months. A young bull consequently eats slower and cannot utilize as rough a feed, or compete for feed, as one with permanent teeth. Research indicates that a bull's usefulness as a 2 yr old can be retarded if not properly reconditioned after use as a yearling.
2. BREEDING SEASON: Don't expect a young bull to compete with older bulls, or horned bulls. If intimidated by an older bull, he won't breed effectively. A young bull, if handled properly and not dominated by other bulls, should service 20-25 females his first season. Size of the pasture and terrain also influence this. Limit the breeding season to no more than 60 days on a yearling bull. If you can't limit the season, consider rotation to give him a rest. Watch a young bull early in the season to detect any physical problems. A virgin bull can have inadequacies undetectable except through observation.
3. HEALTH: Maintain a good general health program, salt, mineral, and fly control. Worming can make a significant difference as well as grub & louse control program.
